Grunsky Drops His Bill; Supports New Coastline Protection Legislation

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky recently told the Senate Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee which, for more than two weeks has been trying to reach accord on a coastline protection bill, that he is dropping his bill, SB 1483 and is joining as a co-author with Senator Alfred E. Alquist in wholehearted support of an amended version of SB 1555.

Grusky said, "As I have consistently stated, if I reached the point where I did not feel that my bill afforded the best plan for the protection and orderly development of the California coastline, I would drop it and support any better bill.

"I believe that with the amendments worked out in cooperation with Senator Alquist, we now have before us a bill reasonably acceptable to all concerned, including conservationists and local government and will accomplish our goal." Grunsky said.

The Senate Committee adopted the amendments to the Alquist bill with Grusky as a coauthor and set the measure for further public hearing and vote on August 23. This will give all concerned citizens the opportunity to study and be heard on the revised version of the measure.

Grunsky reported that accord was reached on the Alquist proposal in the last few days when a concerted effort was launched by the proponents of both Grunsky's and Alquist's bill to establish, through coastal protection legislation, viable procedures and guide lines to effectively manage the coastal resource.

Grunsky said, "The Alquist Bill now embodies the best concepts of state planning with regional governmental enforcement.

"The revised bill calls for a statewide plan to be reviewed and approved by the statewide Coastal Zone Conservation and Development Commission, created from plans submitted by the cities and counties through the regional commissions, composed of locally elected public officials and an equal number of members from the private sector, having knowledge and expertise in coastal planning and conservation."

The jurisdiction of the state Commission remains at 1,000 yards inland.

"The Statewide and regional Commission gives the desired strong protection against undue influence from special local interests. On the other hand upon approval of the statewide plan the regional councils of government become the enforment agencies which will protect against otherwise potential abuses at the hands of a bureaucratic statewide commission," Grunsky said.

"Without a bill substantially in the form of SB 1555 as now amended, there would be little possibility of getting a coastline protection bill enacted and signed into law this session. I trust that everyone will agree with me that it is essential that we have an acceptable and good bill now that protects the statewide and local interests in the preservation of the coastline as well as it's development with appropriate consideration of the interests of my contituents in the coastal counties and their elected local public officials," he concluded.

HRD Cutting Interviews

A Reagan Administration official recently described a new system of eligibility reviewing of persons claiming unemployment insurance benefits that is cutting needless oral interviews by as much as 75 percent.

The official, Sigurd I. Hansen, Deputy Director of the Department of Human Resources Development (HRD) and head of HRD's insurance division, said the new system has gone into effect statewide.

"Instead of giving everyone the same type of interview, we have cut back on the time spent in interviewing the clearly eligible workers and give more time now to those who need extra help to find another job," Hansen said.

"Under the old system, every person receiving benefits was required to show up for regular periodic interviews to maintain his elegibility," he said. "Some of these interviews were awaste of everyone's time and they have been stopped. For example, to interview a member of a union or guild where the unemployment rate is high would be unproductive. On the other hand, some claimants need special job-search help and more time is now available to give them longer, in-depth interviews."

What Is Happening at Roberts Lake

Despite denials by the city of Seaside that Roberts Lake would be filled, city trucks last week deposited sand and dirt along its Canyon Del Rey Coulevard edge.

While rumors were revived that the city planned to obliterate the lake, which has long been a haven for ducks, city manager Milton Farrell explained that the dirt was to be used to fill only a small portion of the lake in order to allow for the widening of Canyon Del Rey.

Farrell did say, however, that there are plans in the exploratory stage which would fill about half the lake to create a commercial site in conjunction with the Laguna Grande redevelopment site.

But, Farrell emphasized, this proposal is no where near official. In fact, he described it as "dormant."

Before filling the lake, public hearings and ecological studies would have to be held, Farrell said.

In response to the filling of the strip of Roberts Lake, a group of 25 women joined forces to make sure that Lake Roberts is kept intact.

The "I Spy Club," as the group is known, promises to keep an eye on future happenings around the lake.

Early Bird Breakfast Next Week

The "Early Bird" Breakfast will herald the start of the Monterey County Fair on Wednesday, August 11.

Many civic leaders will be on hand for the breakfast and brief ceremonies.

The public is invited to this traditional ou-of-doors breakfast starting at 7:30 a.m. that is sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce.

The Fort Ord Cooking School will prepare the food and music and the color-guard will be provided by Fort Ord.

John Logan is chairman of the event.

There will be special hostesses to assist with the seating and Girl Scouts will assist with serving.

Breakfast tickets are $1.50 each. The JHunt Club Gate on Fairground Road will be open at 7:30 a.m.

Mini-Bikes Are Feature Attraction

This Saturday, August 7, the Fort Ord Varmints Club, a mini-bike group sponsored by the Army Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command at Fort Ord, will be featured at a mini-bike contest held in conjunction with the First Annual Festival and Fish Fry sponsored by the Moss Landing Chamber of Commerce.

These mini-bike riders range from six years old to 19 and are directed by Specialist Six Albert F. Cinqmars of CDCEC, who organized the club in August, 1969 and has seen it grow from a handful of youngsters to 150.

The Club was organized to give kids a place to race their bikes away from housing areas and street traffic and they are supervised and instructed in the safe, efficient handling of their vehicles.

The festival will run from 10 am to 6 pm on Saturday and will include a fish fry continuous from 11 am until the end of the festival. All proceeds from the affair will be used for the construction of a community hall and youth recreation center for the Moss Landing area.

Concession booths will be set up for games, drawings every half hour, refreshments including cooked artichokes (for which the area is famous), cake, coffee, soft drinks and, of course, hot dogs.

Antique auctions will be held during the entire day.

This is Moss Landing's first Festival and Fish Fry and it will last one day only--Saturday. The public is invited.

It will be esay to find--the activities, except for the mini-bike races--will be set up in the parking lot of the Moss Landing Harbormaster's office, just off Moss Landing Road and Highway 1.

The Mini-bike races will be held on the beach area adjacent, beginning at 3 p.m.

County Fair Is Unique Attraction

County fairs have generally been a cross between the Dust Bowl and Ringling Brothers. However, that is not the case in Monterey County.

The Monterey County Fairgrounds has been honored throughout the country for its parklike atmosphere, which has always been more Sunnybrook Farm than Barnum and Bailey. And this year, the grounds crew and decorations committee are working full time to give the August 11 to 15 fair an atmosphere that even Monterey County never had.

A professional decorator--who specializes in Christmas decorations for shopping centers---is on the job this year, planning a giant flower and light show, with roots somewhere between the middle ages and the psychedelic future.

Carl Adelhardt, of San Rafael, who's been ornamenting the Chinese New Year rituals of the Bay area for years, will be bringing 35000 pots of flowers to Monterey this year.

The flowers are being grown now in Salinas. At fair time, they'll be lining rooftops and windows and showing up just about everwhere else.

Color is what Adelhardt is concerned with and he wants plenty of it.

And if flowers aren't enough, a big little show around the flowers should take up the slack.

Not suprisingly, the theme of this year's ground decoration is "Dimensions in Color."

But even without all the extras, fair officials say, Monterey County's Fair is different, in a nice way, from other fairs in the state.

"When people think of fairs, they think of dust," said Ed Pio, the fair's public relations officer". But we've got a parklike atmosphere here."

That means, among other things, grass--and lots of it. The 22-acre fairgrounds are green and a year-round crew works to keep it that way. There are scores of pine and oak trees.

Even the buildings, Pio indicated, are designed to compliment the environment.

For years, magazines have recognized Monterey's efforts at grounds upkeep and decoration, calling it one of the most artistic and creative fairs in the state.

The fairgrounds, which first opened in 1936, have a lot of features lacking at other fairs.

There is a children's playground, which is handled by the Monterey Parks and Recreation Department.

And there is the campground-like area used for entertainment, which runs continuously throughout the fair.

There is also a full-scale restaurant, the Hunt Club, for people who want to sit down to something other than hot dogs and pop corn.

All of the special features cost money and time. The Monterey County Fair, when it divides up its money, spends a larger portion than almost all fairs on upkeep and decoration.

PT&T Opens New Office

Pacific Telephone opened the doors of its new business office at 787 Munras Avenue Monday, August 2.

Don Boston, local PT&T manager, said the 26,000 square-foot structure houses a greatly expanded public business office, plus local marketing, plant and other administrative offices.

"Our old office at 404 Franklin Street became too small to serve the communications needs of the ever-growing Monterey Peninsula area," Boston said. "Our new Munras Avenue location should adequately serve the community for years to come."

Boston said business office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5p.m., Monday through Friday. The telephone number remains unchanged: 375-1511.

Sip Wine This Sunday

Final plans for the annual Wine Tasting Party were discussed at the monthly meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (Int.). The event is the group's primary fund-raising project and is an annual affair, sponsored by the local chapter.

It will be held this Sunday, August 8, from 7 to 8:30 pm at the Estrada Adobe on Tyler Street, Monterey.

The wines will be provided by the Mirassour Vineyards of San Jose. French bread and cheeses will also be served.

Tickets, priced at $1.50 each, may be purchased from any NSA member or by calling Mrs. Loretta Dirk at 375-1500. Mrs. Dirk is chairman of the event.

Paintings on display will be by Linda Webb, of Watsonville. Mrs. Webb has exhibited her paintings in Moss Landing and in two art shows in Watsonville. She is a student of Carl Martin of Watsonville, a member of the Pacific Grove Art League.

Door prizes will be awarded. The first prize will be a metal sculpture by Geno Danning of Carmel. There will also be decorative chandles and several bottles of wine awarded.

City Proposes Cut In Housing Density

Seaside councilmen, planning commissioners and redevelopment agency members have given strong support to a proposal to reduce the housing density on the eight-acre site that lies between Mescal Street and the Fort Ord boundary near the east end of Sonoma Avenue.

This property, which occupies the highest point in Seaside, is considered one of the choices pieces of real estate on the Peninsula.

Since 1962, the land has been designated for up to 360 multiple dwelling units. However, the city officials have proposed that the density be reduced to 100-120 units.

Under the original Del Monte Heights Redevelopment Plan adopted in 1962, this area was to be the site of a "superdevelopment." However, Russell Hoss, executive director of the redevelopment agency, called this nine-year old proposal outdated. He said that allowing this density to remain would be a serious error on the part of all concernd.

The meeting to discuss this issue was called at the request of the redevelopment agency after the foundation which has planned to build nearly 200 units was unable to secure FHA financing and had to drop the plan. Rent for these units would have begun at $91.

Hoss said that after discussing the matter with FHA officials, his agency recommends that the city push for a condiminium or cooperative housing development. In this development, monthy payments would fall in the $200-$250 area.

While announing this proposal some officials emphasized that Seaside has done more than its share for the low to moderate income residents of the city. They pointed out that about 500 units are available in the city for this group.

Joseph Cota, Mayor Pro Tem, said that it is about time that the other cities on the peninsula did someting for the disadvantaged residents of the area. He pointed out that no other city on the peninsula has a program of such low cost housing.

Chamber Want To Increase Its Duties

The Seaside Chamber of Commerce has announced that it plans, if it gets the aid of a $1,000 monthly grant of public funds, to revitalize and expand its services.

The announcement was made with a proposal to a committee of the city council.

Under this proposal, the organization will contract with the Dick Bragg Personnel Agency of Salinas for research, administrative and promotional services.

The council committee, consisting of Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Cota and Billie Barton, heard plans for the chamber to provide a man who would periodically call on each business to determine the problems of the business community, to help solve their problems, to obtain memberships and to relay all information to the chamber's board of directors.

According to the chamber's 13-point proposal, the Bragg Agency will publish a monthly newsletter, plan membership campaigns, assemble promotional and statistical data, respond to mail and phone questions from visitors, maintain a catalogue of available business sites, coordinate business and industrial development and handle consumer complaints.

A more-detailed form of the proposal will be presented to the council committee before tonight's regular council meeting.

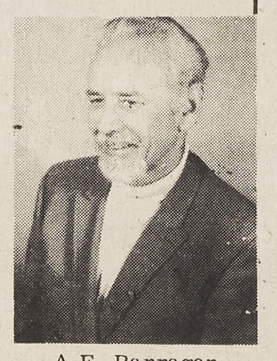

Last week's meeting was called at the request of the recalled council members. Its purpose was to review a contract under which the city pays the chamber $300 a month for promotion and the answering of telephone and mail questions.

The monthly payments were stopped when it was time for the city to make its $900 quarterly allocation to the chamber. At that time, the council claimed that payments should be stopped because, after Art Bayer resigned as president in May, they were providing only half services with only one person working in the office.

The national political scene has been quite active recently. The most important action in many years was President Nixon's announcement that he would make a trio to mainland China to meet with the Chinese leaders. Many of his right-wing conservative followers were aghast, as as was his reactionary Vice President Spiro Agnew. This was to be expected.

The truth is that the most pressure toward the recognition of China has come from large business groups who are anxious to start trade with that country. As far back as ten years ago, the conservative Commonwealth Club of San Francisco was urging the United States to recognize Red China. This group of businessmen was afraid that the other nations that were trading with the Chinese would get too strong a foothold. These men were realists who realized that outsiders can't control the type of government any particular nation wants to have. But if there is money to be made on trade, then they will trade.

Ever since 1917, the United States has held psychopathic foreign stance against "Bolshevics" and "Reds". Most of the mistakes we have made in the Far East, the Near East, in Europe and in Cuba have been dictated by this hatred of Communism. Every other large nation has been able to oppose the philosophy of communism and yet realize that it is possible to trade with communist nations. Maybe a new, more realistic foreign policy will emerge from this Nixon move.

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with BETTY MANN

Hi there, Fellow Peninsulans:

The ESEA Summer School Program that was sponsored under the direction of Mrs. Charlie Knight, district director of ESEA, had an enjoyable climax to a successful summer session at Highland School It was an outstanding evening filled with many productions of all the students.

Starting off the evening's festivities was a swimming exhibition performed by a team of youngsters. Some of these were unable to swim before attending the swimming classes six weeks ago. Although the temperature outside was quite cold, the youngsters braved the chilly waters and delighted the audience with their aquatic abilities.

As a very cold bystander at this exhibition, I think it would be another wonderful accomplishment of the MPUSD, who provided the youngster of Seaside with the pool, to include a pool heater and, an enclosure around the pool. (I'm sure none of you on the school board would be able to sleep at night if one of the young swimmers caught a bad case of pnuemonia because of the chilly water in the pool. T HINK ABOUT IT, NOW!)

Later, the crowd went into the auditorium to enjoy a delicious dinner which was served to approximately 560 persons.

Mr. Gary Childs, principal of the summer session, opened the program following dinner. She introduced the mistress of ceremonies, Wilma Rudolph,former olympic gold medal winner. The program featured many varieties of modern ballet and ethnic dances that were taught and arranged by dancing instructor Betty Sapp and her assistant dance instructors, Chiquita Ector, Sandra Scott and my son, Maurice Jr.

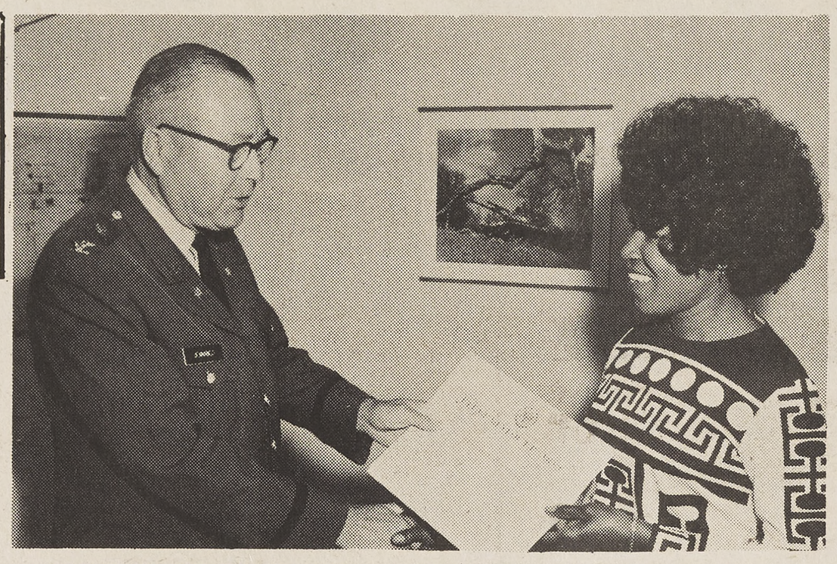

Numerous skits were performed by the various age groups. Monterey High School Song Leaders, under the direction of Miss Sapp, performed a very swinging song routine. Then came the finale of the program. The entire cast of the program sang "Let The Sun Shine in." After this William Hill, vice principal of the summer session, introduced the people responsible for the program and the beautiful art projects created by the children. These included Barbara Dahlberg, Chiquita Ector, Sandy Scott, Maurice Mann Jr. and Mrs. Hobson, who assisted Betty Sapp in the dance instruction.

Also last week, a delicious pot luck dinner was enjoyed by the teachers, parents and students of the alternative school at Del Rey Woods as the ended summer session. The alternative school is open to all children in the M.P.U.S.D. although the enrollment quota has been filled for the 1971 School Year. It is hoped that the school will be able to facilitate more youngsters for the 1972 school year. As a parent with a child attending this school during the Summer, I found it to be very interesting, culturally speaking and very enriching to my son, who attended. He learned many different skills that were beneficial in the learning process. For example, he learned about math by baking a loaf of bread. This entailed learning fractions. It also gave him the feeling of accomplishing something that he had never done before. This is just one of the many new concepts in teaching a child through a relaxed and non-pressured atmosphere.

The basic goal of the alternative school is to create an educational program truly responsive to the needs and interests of children in their individual pursuit of self esteem and self competence.

In order to achieve this goal, they develop an instructional program which is child centered; they change the role of the teacher to that of a "learning facilitator"; they involve parents of students in planning and operating the school program and they make maximum use of community resources to encourage in each child anappreciation of his total environment and culture.

So long for now,
Betty

Plans Made To Unite Arts Councils

The California Arts Commission, in response to a survey of the needs of California's numerous arts councils, is sponsoring the establishment of an alliance of California arts councils.

The major objectives of this move are to facilitate communication between the state's community arts councils and generate public interest and participation in the arts on a statewide basis.

Survey questionnaires sent to the arts councils throughout the state revealed that these groups, which presently function as separate units isolated from one another, feel a strange need to communicate and cooperate with one another through a sharing if ideas, experiences and cultural resources.

A Steering Committee, comprised of 16 representatives of arts councils throughout the state and a member of the Council of Assistance to the Arts (a referral service for professional volunteer assistance to the arts in the Los Angeles area), has been asked by the California Arts Commission to study the feasibility of an alliance of California arts councils. Throughout the initial developmental stages, the CAC will work directly with the Steering Committee.

Membership on this committee was determined on the basis of geographical location, experience in the development and maintenace of an arts council and strong interest in improving communication between California's many arts councils.

Representing the Art Coordinating Council of Monterey County on the Steering Committee is Mrs. Rody B. Holt.

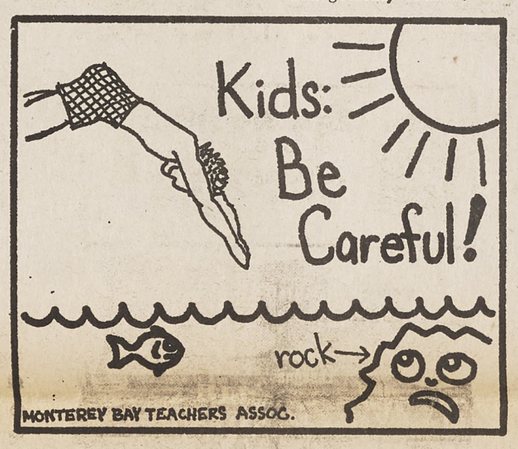

An ad hoc liaison committee has been established by the California Arts Commission. Members of this committee are Mrs. Louis C. Olker, Chairman, Mrs. Hal Abbate and Mrs. Robert Stanton.

Uniting California's arts councils would serve numerous funtions such as maintaining master files on news media outlets, arts management, artists.

out this important assignment. Any other president would have been accused of being soft on communism if he even dared to suggest an accomodation with Red China. I predicted to a friend of mine in the 1950's that if the U.S. ever was to recognize Red China, it would have to be by a man such as Nixon, who is a well know communist fighter. My prediction came true when Nixon made his bold move last month.

There has been lots of activity locally too. The Chamber of Commerce has come up with a new program to revitalize its activities. It is asking for a public grant from the city of $1,000 per month to finance this new program. The Chamber had been receiving $300 per month until recently when it ranto into some trouble with the now-recalled city council. I hope that the Chamber, together with the newly formed Businessmens Association, can join forces and do some real promotion for this city. Their biggest promotion should be to get some new industry into the area that will create some jobs for our unemployed. I f they can do that, then maybe they will have earned the public grant they seek. They have some good ideas. I hope that they can carry them out.

I see where Saul Weingarten has come up with another big scheme to build a major shopping center in the Laguna Grande area. This one, however, will mostly be finnanced with private capitol. The center would cover 13.5 acres between Highway 1 and Del Monte Boulevard, north of Humboldt Road and just south of SandCity. This is the second big proposal to build a large shopping complex in Laguna Grande and we still have the one with the Payless Drug Store kicking around. It is to early to assess the possibilities of such a shopping center since all is still in the preliminary stages, but I hope that these elaborate plans don't hold up any developers who may have more modest plans, but who are ready to go right now. Remember what happened to Monterey. They waited for Penney's for over ten years and still wound up with a big emptylot and a loss of a few million dolars.

Speaking of the Laguna Grande, I was alerted a couple of weeks ago that there were plans to fill Roberts Lake. I contacted city manager Milton Farrell immediatly and he assured me that there were no such plans in the immediate future and if there were any moves in that direction they would only be made after studies and public hearings. However, within a few days of my conversation with Farrell, here were city trucks filling in part of the lake. Since then the public has been assured that this was only a partial fill to align Canyon Del Rey Boulevard. But, this explanation didn't stop the ladies of the city from forming "The I Spy" club to keep an eye on the city and prevent the filling of Roberts Lake. There is such a shortage of fresh water refuges for our wild fowl that any moves to fill the Lake should be resisted by all groups interested in preserving our ecology. Go get 'em ladies!

I was delighted to be able to attend the MPC production of Molier's classical comedy, "Tartuffe". It was absolutely a most delightful presentation. It seemed as if each of the actors was especially made for the part he played. The lines, which are inrhyme, were superbly given. Even the very difficult and long passages they were ennunciated perfectly. I had never bedore attended any of the college's performances, but I was pleasantly suprised by the magnificent theater and the excellent presentation. The play "Tartuffe" will be performed again this Friday and Saturday August 6 and 7. Don't miss it. It is a great presentation.

There is so much more to report this week, but you should all be bored by now with my ramlings. I love you all.

Changes

"Uhuruh," the Black theatrical experience currently at San Francisco's Boarding House Theatre, has dropped its two weekend late shows. The original musical by Danny Duncan will now be performed nightly Tuesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

New reduced ticket prices start at $3 and are available at the theatre box office, 960 Bush Street (near Taylor), all Macy's.

Questions &Answers

Q -- I am in Vietnam serviceman hospitalized pending discharge. I recently applied for vocational rehabilitation, and understand I will be rated for service-connected disabilities by the VA before I am discharged. Will this rating set the one year period that I will have to apply for service disabled veteran's insurance?

A -- No. The one year allowed for applying for service-disabled veterans insurance begins with the date of the first notice of disability rating sent to you by the VA after discharge.

Q -- Are there any income and credit requirements a veteran must meet in obtaining a VA loan for a mobile home?

A -- No, there is no set income requirement. The term of repayment of the loan, however, must bear a proper relationship to the veteran's or serviceman's present and anticipated income and expenses and he must be a satisfactory credit risk.

Q - May a veteran who is receiving compensation from the VA arrange to pay a policy loan on his National Service Life Insurance out of this monthly benefit?

A -- Yes. It is a most convenient and relatively painless way to accomplish this repayment. VA Form 29 888, Insurance Deduction Authorization available from any BA office, should be completed and sent to the office which has your insurance records.

Q -- Is the sale of VA repossessed homes limited to veterans only?

A - No. Anyone who qualifies may purchase these homes whether a veteran or non-veteran.

Q -- I will attend college this fall under G.I. Bill. When can I expect my first check?

VA cannot state an exact date. When VA receives the enrollment certification from the school, it generally will require from four to six weeks to process it for payment.

Q -- Will my pension as a widow of a World War II veteran be discontinued because I received an inheritance of $4,000?

A -- No Under the law, the inheritance may not affect your payments until the first of the year after that in which it is received. Then unless your estate is excessive, your pension rate will be computed on your anticipated income only.

Q -- I converted my "V" NSLI term policy to the Modified Life plan in July 1970. I received dividends each year on the term policy, but failed to receive a dividend payment on the Modified Life policy. Why?

A -- When you convert your NSLI policy you also change the anniversary date on which dividends on the Modified Life policy will be paid. The Modified Life policy with a "V" prefixed number to which you converted is a participating policy and dividends have been declared on these policies for 1971. However, your dividend in July will be smaller than those on your NSLI term policy.

As I See It

By Mel Vercoe

An outhouse blows up and seriously burns its occupant and our scientists manage to land men on the moon along with an electric dune buggy.

Yes, we live in an age of miracles. The outhouse incident, however, turned out to not be a real miracle because somebody had poured gasoline in it and the next user had lit a match to see where he was and had then tossed the match down into the gasoline. Anyway, it happened in a national park and a federal judge refused to grant our burned hero the $125,000 he wanted from the government for general damage etcetera.

And the moon trips, while basically the result of patient and diligent and devoted effort, are really miracles in that they should never have happened, not at a cost of $30 billion, while many of our people are ill-housed, unemployed, hungry much of the time and with not a great deal to look forward to.

This is the real miracle - that a society able to bring back moon samples is able to do this so efficiently with full awareness of what effect such misplaced priorities will have on America's future.

But to give some credit we must admit the moon mission is fantastic. Circling the moon at 50,000 feet altitude, for example, is equivalent to riding a bicycle around a circular room 16 feet across, and keeping the handlebar just one inch from the wall without touching it. And then, too, the distance is not only very great from here to the moon, but it is filled with variables. For example, there is the lessening of the earth's gravitational pull and the increase of the moon's pull as one travels from the earth to the moon.

There is a popular misconception that at some place between here and the moon the earth's gravity pull ends and the moon's begins. In actuality, there is no end or limit in distance to the gravity pull of either the earth or the moon, but at a distance much nearer the moon than the earth the pull of one is equal to the pull of the other. If a traveler happened to come to a stop there and run out of rocket fuel at the same time, he might have a little trouble getting home in time for lunch.

All we knew all of this long before we spent the $30 billion, just as we knew the moon had no air to breathe and no water to drink. It is really too bad in a way that the moon can't be used as a sewage and garbage dump. Running a hose up there would be complicated by the earth's rotation, which would mean we would have to hook it on to the North Pole with a swivel connection during the spring and summer and then fasten it to the South Pole during the Fall and Winter, so it wouldn't drag.

So the idea isn't too practical. We could pump all of our smog and polluted water and pop bottles and beer cans to the moon, but then what would we have left? We'd be as bad off as the moon, which brings us back to another miracle - that we can be so smart and still not have sense enough to appreciate what we have.

Work Bill Dies

Legislation to create $200 million worth of public works jobs for unemployed Californians has been killed by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Voted down last week, the measure by Assemblyman Leo McCarthy (D-San Francisco), was drawn to replace similar federal construction jobs lost when President Nixon vetoed a congressional public works plan.

The bill would have authorized new construction projects for park recreation, environment, transporation along with more school construction.

Californians Tops at Rodeo

California cowboys beat off competition from many states to take all but two championships at the 1971 California Rodeo at Salinas which ended Sunday with a paid attendance of 43,291.

As usual, the biggest share of the $49,065 prize money went to the men with the ropes. Bill Armour, Salinas and Jim Olds, San Juan Bautista, won the team roping and pocketed high money of $1888.81 each, after roping four steers in 57.1 seconds.

The All-Around trophy presented by the San Francisco Chronicle was awarded to Jim Rodriguez, Jr., Castroville and Shandon, who won a total of $1,775.63 in team roping and calf roping.

Carl Prelli, Wallace, won the calf roping in 73.1 seconds.

Steer wrestling went to Jim Roddy, San Jose, younger brother of Jack Roddy, twice world's champion steer wrestler, who downed his steers in 61 seconds.

The saddle bronc riding event and the trophy of the Governor of the State of California which goes with the championship, was won by Bill Martinelli, Oakdale, with a score of 143 points on two head.

Linda Gill, Exeter, was named Sweetheart of the rodeo, in competition with ten of the state's outstanding cowgirls.

The California Rodeo's barrel racing championship was won by Karen Greenough, Fairbank, Arizona, who set a new mark for the modified Salinas course of 66.3 seconds for the four days.

Bobby Ingersoll, Pleasant Grove, won the Open Stockhorse Class with "Lucky Red" and Tony Amaral, Byron, took first place in the Model Stockhorse Class with "Three Parette".

The A. J. Zabala Memorial Trophy Buckle which goes to the winner of the Ladies Stockhorse Class was won by Debbie Bryant, Shafter, on "Lady Buzz."

Matlock Rose, of Gainesville, Texas, won the Open Cutting Horse competition ringing "Joe Duhon." John Brazil, Jr., Geyserville, on "Penda Chex" took first place in the Jaquima Class.

The forerunner of the handsome decorative motif on this furniture was first slowly and painstakingly carved by hand from solid wood. To assure that there is always a perfect match in every detail, the final decorative component as used here was then meticulously executed from this handcarved model in polymerized chemical compounds specially formulated for high impact and chip resistant qualities.

Oak Shores Sales Reach $2.5 Million

Sales volume at Oak Shores, General Resource Development's multi-million dollar private resort community 25 miles west of Paso Robles, has reached the $2.5 million mark, Harry L. Browne, president of the company, announced recently.

LET " RIP! -- There is no size or horsepower limitation for boats at Lake Nacimiento, so, speedster like this one, can crank up and let go! Property owners at Oak Shores, only private resort development on lake, enjoy huge expanse of water that gives them water skiing run of 15 miles or more. Scores of inlets, coves and bays give angler excellent fishing for white and largemouth bass, catfish, crappie and bluegill perch.

Since the first of the year, 100 lots in the 3,000-acre lakefront development have been purchased, bringing to 280 the number of lots sold since the project began, Browne revealed.

"Sales are actually running ahead of schedule and we are pushing ahead with our master-planned development so that our property owners can begin building," Browne said.

For that reason, some of the work that was not scheduled for completion until next year will be completed this year, he said.

"There are still some 300 lots in the first section available, and we expect to open another section of 300 more lots later his year," Browne said.

"Lake Nacimiento is becoming the 'in' place for water-skiing and other water-related sports," Brown declared.

"It has 17 miles of open water, scores of coves and inlets and the water is a comfortable temperature in contrast to the high mountain lakes which are bone-chilling cold the year round."

White bass, largemouth bass, catfish, crappie and bluegill perch thrive in the lake, which has 165 miles of shoreline.

Oak Shores, with its marina facilities and boat-launching ramp, is located on the north side of the lake.

Moreover, there is no size or horsepower limitation for motorboats on the lake. If you've got a speedster, you can crank her up and let her go, Browne said.

General Resource Development is completing the conversion of a 100-year-old homestead and cabin into a Western Riding Club, with a tackroom, padddocks and corrals where the Oak Shores property owners can either rent horses or board their own mounts the year around.

A system of riding trails is being created, but there is wide-open country that abounds with wildlife, which can be explored on horseback.

Wild turkey, dove, quail, deer and feral goats inhabit Oak Shores and the surrounding countryside. At Oak Shores the wildlife is protected. No hunting is allowed on the property, which rapidly is becoming a wildlife preserve, with animals and human beings getting along together.

Promoted By Bank

Wilson G. Smith has been promoted to head of the consumer instalment lending department at Bank of America's Seaside Branch, it was announced recently by Regional Vice President J. B. Wiesler.

A 24-year banking veteran, Smith succeeds Kent Pearson, who was recently promoted to the bank's Pacific Grove Branch.

Born in the Phillippines, Smith joined B of A in 1947 as a clerk at the Monterey Branch.

He and his wife, Pat, are parents of two sons, Mark, 18 and Christpher, 16. They reside in Monterey.

Catalog Is Out

Bib overalls "made exactly the same now as they were nearly 40 years ago" are a nostalgic kickoff in the Sears catalog for Fall and Winter 1971. The catalog is now being distributed to 13 million families across the country.

The overalls are among 16 pages of important looks in casual clothing that open the new 1,664-page catalog.

Among other important looks are short pants and knit pants for women and girls, trench coats, walking suits and jeans for men and women.

For cost-conscious mothers with an eye on durability as well as fashion, the new "Toughskins" jeans are introduced. Two years of research and field tests in an orphanage helped make the tri-blend Toughskins the strongest jeans in Sears history.

Other merchandise introduced in the Fall catalog includes a quick-drying, one-day kit for antiquing furniture; authentic, bronze-finished replicas of World War II Navy bells and 19th century farm bells, for use in decorating homes and patios and an eight-piece set of Craftsman wrenches in stanless steel, described as "the most rust-resistant we've ever sold."

Ord Golfers Vie for Trip To Las Vegas

The Ft. Ord Golf Course will host a 36-hole medal play tournament August 21 and 22 to select three golfers to represent Ft. Ord's Golf Course at the Worldwide Military Golf Classic. The Classic will be held in Las Vegas September 13 through 16, and is open to active duty, retired military and military reservists.

The low gross winner of the Classic is invited to play in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am in 1972.

Last year Ft. Ord golfer Specialist Four Mike Doan tied for the low gross. He and Sergeant Bill Dudley of the Presidio of San Francisco, with whom he tied, were both invited to the Pebble Beach extravaganza.

The tournament at Ft. Ord will select one low gross winner on active military duty, one low gross retired and one low net player of either category for whom the Ft. Ord Golf will defray tournament costs.

Registration for play in the Ft. Ord tourney must be made at the Golf Course Pro Shop no later than Ausut 19 A $2 registration fee will be charged all registrants. All active and retired military personnel are eligible. However, applicants who are not members of the Ft. Ord Golf Association will be required to pay Ft. Ord green fees.

QUITS - Julian Camacho recently resigned from Santa Cruz County Draft Board in protest of war in Southeast Asia. He will be guest of honor at reception to be held at home of Mattye Blakeney, 1615 Harding Street, Seaside. Meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, August 13. Camacho is considering running for Congress against Representative Burt Talcott in next election. He is visiting Seaside to meet with community leaders and voting public.

Flowers Are Attraction

Flower-growing has always been a big part of Monterey Peninsula life and the Monterey County Fair has given it a proportionately big spot.

Over the years, floriculture has become one of the biggest attractions at the fair and another huge program is planned for this year's fair, which runs from August 11 to 15.

"We don't have a theme or anything," said Eve Matuzek, general chairman for the floriculture division this year. "Everyone knows it's there."

Besides, she pointed out, the fair board has taken "Dimensions in Color," as its overall fair theme this year. The entire grounds will be decked out in flowers (mainly, a hot pink rose named "Jazzfest" after the Monterey Jazz Festival).

But that won't take anything away from the exhibit itself, she maintained, "Flowers never take away from flowers."

Garden Column

by Russ Parvin

Gophers can be very evasive. They can completly ignore the traps or poision set for them. Usually the traps and poison are set in one of the many runways. These runways are built by the gophers to distract and discourage their natural enemies. The main run of a gopher is 2 to 3 feet below the ground and as deep as 18 feet for their nest. The mounds of earth above the ground are collection of dirt from their main diggings and usually are a dead end.

Gophers can completely take over a yard within a year's time if not controlled when first spotted. They have three to four litters a year with up to 13 pups in each litter. Then the pups begin reproducing at four months.

The solution then is to rid yourself of the gophers at the first sighting of pushed soil. Dig from this point, but be careful not to fill in the hole. Stop when you hit a fork in the tunnel. This is the main tunnel and usually is two to three feet from the opening. Lay a trap in each direction with a line to the surface, then cover with rocks all but a mall light hole. This light attracts the gopher. He will hurry to cover the hole against predator and will run into the trap.

Poisoning is done by placing the poison bait in the hole so it drops into the run and cover the hole. The bail may be any number of things, including bacon, nuts, meat, peanut butter, cheese or dog food.

The main thing when planting traps or setting bait is to avoid touching the traps or bait. Gophers have a keen sense of smell. They smell the human scent on a trap or bait and will completly avoid it. It is best when setting traps to wear rubber gloves or use thongs to place them in the hole.

Full water pressure must be used when flooding a gopher hole and works best when the gopher is in the main run. A gas bomb is most effective when the gopher has just been sited and the gas can be administered directly into the run he occupies.

The natural way to rid yourself of gophers is by the addition of their natrual enemies-the gopher snake. These usually may be purchased from local nurserymen and are especially effective against the pests.

The best measures against gophers are preventive measures taken before a garden is started. Wire mesh may be places in the holes before the plants are planted or under an entire bed. A deep cement retainer sunk three to four feet below the ground encircling a bed will prevent the gophers from coming into the bed.

Questions about your garden and its upkeep may be sent to Russee Parvin 575 Broadway Seaside.

When you see this symbol in the road ahead it will be on a slow moving vehicle traveling 15 or 10 or maybe even 5 miles per hour. You may be doing 25 or 45 or 60. You may have moments to recognize this triangle and react. The triangle is reflective red with a fluorescent orange interior. Farm Safety Week (July 25-31) is not just for farmers. Learn this symbol and avoid running into one.

Church Press Fills A Need

A former United Methodist editor, Ezekiel Makunike, who directs an all-Africa writing program, believes that not only should churches stay in the publication field in developing nations, they should set the pace. An important role for the church press is that of independent judgement and criticism if needed in countries where government-owned newspapers are sometimes the only voice, he said.

Makunike is director of the 12-year-old Africa Literature Centre at Kitwe, Zambia. A 1969 Methodist Crusade Scholar at Syracuse University's Journalism School, he became first African director of the Centre in 1970. Formerly editor of Umbowo, Rhodesian United Methodist's outspoken newspaper, he is a member of the Communication Committee of the World Council of Churches.

Oil Slick Hits Coney

Oil slicks have hit cities on the Atlantic Coast as well as the Pacific Coast.

Brooklyn's famed Coney Island, fronting on the Atlantic Ocean, is the latest victim of technology and its slip-ups.

Swimming was forbidden at Coney Island recently when some 38,000 gallons of oil poured from a Navy ship in Bayonne, New Jersey, and drifted over to the famed beach, sandy playland for many heat-weary New Yorkers in the summertime.

New York city Mayor John Lindsay and other officials said the spillage was caused by human failure aboard the Navy-owned ship Towle, which is operated by a private concern under contract to the Navy.

The accident occurred while oil was being pumped from one tank of the ship to another.

City officials were in charge of mopping up the spill, and the Navy had accepted the cost of an estimated $350,000 a day.

Commander Robert J. Hanson, head of the United States Coast Guard's regional team on water pollution, said his agency has gound an average of two oil spills a day in the New York City Harbor area. He said the total for the year might reach 800.

Medics Talk On Psoriasis

American Negroes are less likely to suffer from the skin disease psoriasis because they mainly originate from West rather than East Africa, according to Dr. Gunnar Lomholt, professor of dermatology at Makerere University in Uganda.

Speaking at an international conference on psoriasis at Stanford University, Dr. Lomholt said genetic factors are more important than climate. He said psoriasis was common in East Africa but rare in West Africa.

Another speaker said psoriasis is less common in American Blacks than in whites.

Pollution Measurement Is Topic

Better ways to measure pollution will be sought through a study to be undertaken by the University of California Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory.

The laboratory -- formerly known as the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory -- has been awarded $152,400 by the National Science Foundation for the first phase of a proposed three-year study of the instruments devised to monitor pollution.

The laboratory is supported by the Automic Energy Commission (AEC).

Investigators will evaluate more than a thousand monitoring instruments and recommend improvements as well as new kinds of instruments.

It will be the first major project of the Laboratory's new Environmental Research Office, established this year to apply the laboratory's multi-disciplinary facilities in the environmental field.

During the first year of the study, the laboratory is expected to present data on the current state of radiation and sulfur dioxide monitoring, to begin a survey of air, water and bio-medical monitoring and to establish criteria for evaluation of instruments and techniques.

The second two years would include studies of environmental quality factors such as metals, specific compounds and salinity.

"Accurate pollution measurements are essential but in many cases the state of the art is far from satisfactory," said Dr. Jack M. Hollander of the Environmental Research Office.

"Old, inadequate and cumbersome techniques are still in wide use. There are many gaps in information about what is available for a particular need, how good it is, how much it costs and even how it works."

Conclusions of the study are to be made available nationwide to users of monitoring equipment.

Film On Dr. King Available

The monumental film "KING: A Filmed Record... Montgomery to Memphis," which won extravagant acclaim in its premiere last spring, is now available in 16mm for community showings through the Martin Luther King Foundation.

Churches of all denominations are being urged by the Foundation to arrange showings in rededication to Dr. King's goals of freedom, peace and justice.

Information on rental arrangements are available from the MLK Foundation, 140 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019. Telephone (212) 247-7336.

More than a tribute to a fallen leader, "KING" is a three-hour chronicle of the civil rights movement from the 1955 Montgomery bus boycott to the assassination.

Without preachment or harangue, KING depicts the events as they occurred.

The film has no narration and bridges the episodes with readings by renowned actors, such as Harry Belafonte, Burt Lancaster, James Earl Jones, Paul Newman, Ruby Dee and Anthony Quinn.

"KING" is a vivid representation of recent history, during which millions of Black Americans emerged from Black spiritual imprisonment, fear and apathy and took to the streets to proclaim their freedom.

In announcing the 16mm film's release, Mrs. Coretta Scott King, president of the Foundation, said that she hoped churches would use "KING" as an educational resource in the continuing struggle for equality and justice through nonviolent social change.

"KING" was conceived by the noted film producer Ely Landau, who enlisted the cooperation of the film industry and the religious community to produce and distribute the film as a noncommercial enterprise.

After two years of preparation, "KING" had its premiere last March, when it was shown simultaneously in 300 cities to an audience of half a million.

The audiences and critics were enthusiastic.

It was nominated for an Academy Award as the Best Documentary of the Year.

The Foundation, which was established by Dr. King's family and close friends, distributes support to organizations that help to perpetuate the precepts and programs for which Dr. King gave his life.

Vet Job Specialists Are Additions To Staff

Specila new teams of veterans employment specialists are being added to the staffs of offices of the State Department of Human Resources Development (HRD) in eight northern California communities, a State official announced today.

The official is Benjamin Hargrave, Regional Deputy Director of HRD for northern California. He said 23 of the new specialists are beefing up the staffs of these HRD offices: San Francisco and Oakland with four specialists apiece Fresno with three, and Hayward, Sacramento, Bakersfield, Stockton and San Jose with two each.

Hargrave said the new specialists---called veterans employment representatives (VERs)-- will function as teams to supplement existing staff members already serving unemployed veterans.

He said the new are veter- and themselves, with "a significant number drawn from ethnic minorities," including many who speak Spanish.

Addition of the new VERs, he said, is an urgent step to keep up with the increasing flow of returning Vietnam veterans whose current unemployment situation is bleak --particularly those in the 20-29 age bracket.

"Young veterans are experiencing a jobless rate almost twice as high as the national average for all unemployed workers, and we intend to do our best to offset that condition," Hargrave said.

The new northern California VERs wil work in teams solely on veterans empolyment activities, with special emphasis on:

*Intensified employer contacts to drum up wider interest.

*Developing specific jobs and helping individual veterans where necessary.

*Working within HRD to develop innovative ways of finding jobs for veterans.

*Generating community contacts and waging an information program on behalf of hiring veterans.

Mingus Is Subject Of Documentary

Charlie Mingus, virtuoso bassist and composer, is the subject of a documentary study which has been called "the first jazz film about jazz."

When it was first shown in motion picture theaters, "Mingus" was called "a very personal, very moving portrait of a man dispossessed." It depicts Mingus as he waited to be forcibly evicted from a Greenwich Village loft, which he had intended for a school of music.

With his possessions piled about him, Mingus reflects on violence and discrimination in America ("I pledge allegiance to the flag, the WHITE flag...a prestige badge worn by a progitable minority"). At one point, he raises a rifle and fires at the ceiling ("I don't know much about guns, but I can learn. Anybody can kill somebody, I guess").

Interspersed with these remarks are scenes of Mingus performing at Lennie's, a club in the Boston area. Mingus is also seen on a peace march, in a black symphony orchestra, and, finnally, as he faces eviction with his five-year-old daughter Carolyn.

In the past two years, Mingus has been largely self-exiled, refraining from performance, and working on his autobiography, which is described by the publisher as "a volcano of a book-- the wild, funny, demonic, dirty, anguished, shocking, and above all profoundly moving self-portrait."

Offer Is Novel One

It may not be a tree in Brooklyn but you can now have a tree of your own... and all of the apricots on it, in San Joaquin County, which is adjacent to Alameda County.

Edison McLeod of the McLeod Ranch in Tracy has announced you can pick your own apricots at his place for 10 cents a pound.

Or you can have a tree of your own and pay only $10 for all the fruits on it.

Better yet, he will guarantee you that there will be 100 pounds of fruit from the tree.

Of course, you can't take the tree with you and you won't be getting a deed to it. But for $10 you can have all the delicious apricots it produces and if the yield does not come up to 100 pounds, he will see that you do get 100 pounds of apricots.

McLeod feels this is a sensible way to market his apricots.

"Pick your own" is not something new. It has been done with a variety of fruits. But having a tree of your own is not often done. Neither is the guarantee.

You may have the same tree year after year if you wish. If you ask, you could even go and water it now and then.

For details, you can call Ed McLeod in Tracy at (209) 835-1843. His ranch is located at 7170 West Linne Road.

Lead Singer Is Injured

Eddie Cornelius, part of United Artists Records' new chart-climbing group, The Cornelius Brothers and Sister Rose, was severly injured in an automobile accident recently in Texas.

Stoney Taylor, guitarist in the 14-piece band which travels with the Corneliuses, was killed when the car they were driving was struck in the rear by a truck while enroute from Galveston to Dallas.

Cornelius, whose trio currently has the number three single in the country, "Treat Her Like a Lady," suffered severe fractures in the arm, leg and rib areas. He is presently recuperating at Galveston Memorial Hospital, hoping to rejoin the group soon.

In the meantime, Eddie's brother, Carter, is taking over the lead singing chores, aided by Rose and another sister, Billie Jo, who will perform with the aggregation during Eddie's absence.

Announces His Plan

Stating that "recent youth cult films have distorted the views of today's young by emphasizing the negative and eliminating the positive," singer - composer business executive Johnny Rivers announced plans to "shift the balance" with the production of a motion picture entitled "The Awakening."

The film, to be made through his New Age Productions, will hopefully involve "most of the contemporary figures who are respected by young people today," Rivers stated.

Rivers said he has already elicited interest from such varied figures as Muhammed Ali.

Record Set By Akii-Bua

Two African runners--Ben Jipcho of Kenya and John Akii-Bua of Uganda -- scored impressive victories in the dual meet with the United States held last weekend at Duke University in Durham, North Carolina.

Jipcho outran Mike Manley on the last lap of the 3,000 meter steeplechase for a 25-yard victory.

Akii-Bua took the 400-meter intermediate hurdles in 49 seconds, reaffirming his position as a strong challenger for an Olympic gold medal in Munich next year. His time set an African record, beating the 50-second time set by Charles Kipkemboi of Kenya last year. Akii-Bua's time for the event was the fastest recorded in the world this year.

GOOD TIRES

Your life, according to the National Automobile Club, depends on good tires with good treads. Replace any tires that don't qualify.
